Consent 1: Taking Part and Sharing Information

Required to take part. Please read, ask questions, then sign.

How to use this form

This English form is the official consent that you sign. A Taglish reading aid can be read aloud to you, or you can read it yourself. The reading aid is not signed.

There is no official Filipino or Taglish translation of the NBO yet, so please ask about anything that is unclear.

This form is between you and the licensed practitioner who will visit you ("the practitioner"), of ConnectEd Kids Therapy Center (legal name: ConnectEducation Kids Therapy Center), Unit 102, University Medical Plaza Building, Richland Homes Phase 3, Brgy. Puting Kahoy, Silang, Cavite 4118 ("the Center"). It explains a free NBO observation visit with your baby.

1. What this is

The Newborn Behavioral Observations (NBO) is a set of 18 gentle observations done together with parents, from birth to about 3 months. It helps parents see their baby's abilities, preferences, and needs. The practitioner is licensed and is training in the NBO, working toward certification under an NBO certification mentor. The visit is free, and it is part of that training.

2. What taking part involves

- One visit of about [VISIT LENGTH] at [VISIT LOCATION], with you or another family member present throughout.
- The practitioner will watch your baby quietly, then gently try observations of sleep, movement, reflexes, looking, listening, crying, and comforting, using a soft light, a rattle, and a red ball. Your baby may be briefly uncovered or undressed in a warm room. You may say no to any part.
- The practitioner may touch your baby's hands, legs, and mouth, using clean hands or clean gloves, and may briefly hold your baby to sit up or lie on the tummy.
- Together you will fill in a Parent Summary written in your baby's voice. You keep the original.
- Optionally, a second visit at least a week later. This is never required.

3. What this is not

The visit is not a class, a test, a medical examination, a diagnosis, or medical advice, and it does not replace your baby's doctor. If the practitioner notices something you may want to talk through with your baby's doctor, you will be told kindly, and the decision is yours.

4. Who is visiting

The practitioner is licensed, is in NBO training, and is not yet NBO-certified. They work with an NBO certification mentor. Another trainee or colleague may sit in as a "practice buddy" only if you agree below. They would keep everything confidential.

5. Possible discomfort and possible benefits

Risks are small. Your baby may fuss, cry, startle, or tire, and being uncovered may feel cool for a moment. The practitioner will comfort your baby with you and stop whenever you or your baby need it. Possible benefits include knowing your baby better, learning your baby's cues and strengths, and ideas for soothing, sleep, and feeding cues. No particular result can be promised.

6. Voluntary, free, no payment

Taking part is your choice. You may say no, or stop at any time, without giving a reason and without any effect on your baby's care or on any other service you receive from the Center. The visit is free, and there is no payment or gift for taking part.

7. Your information

What we collect	Your name and contact details. Your baby's name, date of birth, sex, and birth details (such as gestational age, weight, feeding, and which baby this is for you), if you wish to share them. Who was present and where. The practitioner's observation notes, a short written narrative, and the Parent Summary. Your feedback, if you give it.
Why	To carry out and follow up the visit, and for the practitioner's NBO certification training.
Who sees it	Only the practitioner and the Center's staff who need it for scheduling and records. The Center's Data Privacy Officer oversees how it is handled. Recordings and examples are used for teaching only as you choose in Consent 2 and Consent 3.
Shared for certification	To complete the certification, the practitioner emails documents to the certification mentor and to the Brazelton Institute at Boston Children's Hospital in the United States. These carry only your baby's first initial, gestational age, and age at the visit, the observation record, the narrative, and a photo of the Parent Summary. They never include names, contact details, or addresses.
Other sharing	None, except if the law requires it or if someone's safety is at serious risk.
How long	Your private records are kept securely for [RETENTION PERIOD] and then deleted. Certification copies are held by the mentor and the Institute under their own policies.

Your rights under the Data Privacy Act of 2012 (Republic Act No. 10173) include the right to be informed, to access and correct your information, to object, to withdraw your consent, to ask for your information to be blocked or deleted, and to complain to the National Privacy Commission. To use these rights, contact the Center's Data Privacy Officer at info.connectedkidsph@gmail.com. If you withdraw, the practitioner will delete your private records and will ask the mentor and the Institute to remove the certification copies; what others hold once received cannot be guaranteed.

8. Questions

Please ask anything before you sign, and at any time afterward: 0906 845 4274 · (046) 412-1437 · info.connectedkidsph@gmail.com. Recording the visit, and using recordings, examples, or your feedback for teaching or to tell others about our program, are separate (Consent 2 and Consent 3). Taking part does not depend on them.
