What Happens During Your Visit

A parent's walk-through of the NBO, and your Parent Summary

The NBO is guided by one idea: Stop, Look, Listen. We stop and focus on your baby, we look at your baby, and we listen to your family's story. Your baby leads, and you are a partner throughout.

Step	What we do	What you may notice or do
1. Welcome	We find a comfortable spot with soft light. I explain what we will do.	Tell me what you have already noticed about your baby.
2. Quiet watching	We watch your baby together: sleepy, awake, calm, or active.	Notice what your baby does with hands, face, and breathing.
3. Light and sound (if baby sleeps)	A soft light and a rattle are used gently to see whether your baby can keep sleeping.	I may ask you to help. It shows how well your baby can protect sleep.
4. Gentle uncovering	Your baby may be uncovered briefly on a warm, flat surface.	We see how your baby responds to the change. You may say no.
5. Movement and reflexes	We look at muscle tone, rooting, sucking, hand grasp, pull-to-sit, and crawling.	You will see the built-in reflexes that help newborns feed and move.
6. Looking and listening	We look at how your baby responds to your face, your voice, a rattle, and a red ball.	You may be asked to call your baby's name. This is often a favorite moment.
7. Crying and comforting	If your baby cries, we try comforting steps one at a time, starting with the gentlest.	You can try what you normally do. Nothing we do is painful.
8. The big picture	We note how your baby moves between sleep, awake, and crying, how stressed or settled your baby seems, and activity level.	Notice what helps your baby settle.
9. Talking together	We talk about your baby's strengths and what your baby finds hard right now, and ideas that may help.	Share what stood out to you. Ask anything.
10. Parent Summary	We fill in the Parent Summary together, written in your baby's voice.	You keep the original.

Your Parent Summary

The Parent Summary is a one-page keepsake with speech bubbles. We write it together, as if your baby were talking to you:

- What I like and prefer at this time
- How I tell you what I like and prefer (the behaviors that show it)
- What I find difficult and challenging at this time
- How I tell you what I find difficult and challenging
- Ways in which you can support me at this time

The form is part of the NBO materials of the Brazelton Institute. You keep the original, and, with your agreement, I take a photo for my certification that shows only your baby's first initial, never your names.

Things to remember

- It is a snapshot of one calm, ordinary moment with your baby. Babies change quickly, and you will keep noticing new things.
- It is not a test, and there is no pass or fail.
- You are the expert on your baby. I am here to wonder with you.
- You may pause or stop at any time, and your baby's comfort comes first.

Free practice observation offered by an NBO trainee of ConnectEd Kids Therapy Center. It is not a medical examination, diagnosis, or medical advice.